

Update July 10, 2018 from Rick Trujillo

Hello Everyone

This information email has been delayed for a great many reasons, one of them being that I have I have had to divide the mailing list in two to allow mailing-it seems that Outlook is cantankerous about how many names and emails in can handle in a single mailing. Like it or not, I am still in the learning phase and I am sending this email out in two separate mailings.

This message is very short, first to learn whether my mailing list repair is in fact the right repair, and to inform a little more about the upcoming trail work scheduled for Saturday, July 14, and Sunday, July 15. An intense rain storm this past Sunday afternoon did a lot of damage to the Ouray Bear Creek trail and the work schedule announced in my July 1 email is being revised. Exactly where we will be working on both days has not yet been decided. I can say nothing more at this point but will inform when everything has been decided, hopefully later today, but certainly by early tomorrow (July 13) morning.

What I can and will say right now is that all who want to do trail work on Saturday (July 14) must be at the Silverton School gym at 6:00 am (except for those who opt for traveling directly to Sherman). We have been informed that all Hardrock trail workers must have long pants, work boots, and (leather) gloves. If you do not have these items you will not be allowed to do trail work on that day. Also, the monsoon rains have arrived and I recommend that you bring a rain jacket. So far the rains have been in the mid to late afternoon, but Saturday is forecast with light rain in the morning, thunderstorms in the afternoon.

Trail work for Sunday, as above, is presently undecided as to what time and where but there will be trail work. A lot of complications arose in the aftermath of the Ouray storm last Sunday afternoon.

I will send another set of emails later today or early tomorrow with more specific information, once I myself know what has been decided. This email is to inform that, in case some may have wondered because of this delay, I am still in the loop; and to inform about the required and recommended clothing.
